From staff reports

MARIETTA - Greg Colson, managing partner of Marietta-based accounting firm Moore Colson, recently announced the admission of two new partners: Michael J. Anderson, a partner in tax services, and Bret Roy, a partner in practice development.

"Both Mike and Bret are top performers and dedicated to the firm," Colson said. "We look forward to the leadership these individuals will provide the firm in the years to come, our future looks bright."

Anderson, formerly a manager in Moore Colson's Tax Services Practice, joined the firm in 2003. His responsibilities at Moore Colson include the coordination of tax services for clients, planning and organizing engagements, and maintaining and expanding good client relations, among other duties.

With experience in domestic and international tax planning, Anderson's business background includes serving clients in the manufacturing, distribution services and real estate industries.

Prior to joining Moore Colson, Anderson was a senior tax manager at Ernst & Young LLP. During his time with Ernst & Young, Anderson served clients throughout the Southeast and held positions in four locations: Atlanta, Birmingham, Ala., Washington, D.C., and Mobile, Ala.

Anderson is a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, Tax Section Member; the Georgia Society of Certified Public Accountants; and the Alabama Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Roy, formerly a director at Moore Colson, joined the firm in 2005. A CPA with more than 20 years accounting and management consulting experience, he has an extensive background in corporate finance, value growth management, long-range strategic planning, and near-term tactical implementation.

He works closely with business owners, CEOs and CFOs to develop new business relationships for the firm's overall practice. Prior to joining Moore Colson, Roy worked with Bennett Thrasher PC as business development manager and operated The Roy Group consulting practice from 1998 to 2000.

Prior to his consulting practice, he held corporate finance management positions with BellSouth, UPS and CSR America Inc. He is a member of the Association for Corporate Growth, American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, Louisiana Society of Certified Public Accountants, and licensed with the State Board of CPA's of Louisiana.
