

Moore Colson Partner Adam Bateman Announced as Member of the Year by AGC's Young Leadership Program

June 13, 2019

Atlanta, Georgia

Moore Colson, a nationally-recognized and award-winning CPA, advisory and consulting firm, recently announced that Partner Adam Bateman was named the Associated General Contractors of Georgia \(AGCGA\)'s Young Leadership Program (YLP)'s Member of the Year at the AGCGA Annual Convention on June 7th in Hilton Head, South Carolina.

AGCGA is the leading statewide trade association representing over 600 of the top companies comprising the commercial construction industry in Georgia and has served Georgia's construction industry since 1928. AGCGA's YLP Member of the Year Award was created in 2016 to honor YLP members for exceptional contributions in one or more areas of the program's three key objectives: charitable works, leadership development and networking.

The YLP Member of the Year Award is presented each June at AGC Georgia's Annual Convention during the Annual Business Meeting. Bateman was chosen as the YLP's Member of the Year for his leadership and determination within AGCGA and for his contributions to making the Georgia community a better place.

AGCGA's Young Leadership Program was created to maximize the leadership potential of young industry professionals to benefit them personally as well as their sponsoring company, the AGC Association, and the construction industry as a whole. The YLP attracts the best and brightest young professionals from around the state – including over 70 member firms and more than 120 individuals – and is comprised of a cross-section of all types of professionals including office and field personnel.

“Thank you so much to AGC Georgia and my fellow YLP members for this incredible honor,” noted Bateman. “I am grateful for the opportunity to serve both the construction industry and our local community through my involvement with the YLP.”
